You probably came to this site because you keep hearing about all of the end of world theories and prophesies. I have been hearing them for years now, too. So like me you are probably wondering if there is any truth to them. And if so, what should you be doing now to prepare. Well, there really are no definitive answers to these questions because we simply need to wait and see how things actually unfold. However, I have explored these theories and this site is all about revealing them to you so you can decide for yourself. Let's get started!

Mayan Prophecy 2012

The doomsday prediction of December 21, 2012 has been frequently associated with the interpretation of the Mayan long calendar. The interpretation actually comes from a 74 page codex that was written by the Mayan on tree bark. Research Scholars believe it was written between 1200 and 1250 AD and decodes many astronomical and calendar points with special focus on eclipses and other movements of stars, suns, and moons. It reveals that the Mayan calendar ends on 13.0.0.0.0 which is translated to December 21, 2012 at 10AM GMT on our modern calendar. Many interpret this date to be the end of the world. Hopi Prophecy 2012

The Hopi believe that the world of man has been destroyed before and that each time after it is destroyed a new world is born. Their prophecy regarding the end of our civilization is very similar to the Biblical Armageddon, making it also a prophecy to take note of during the time getting closer and closer to 2012. Nostradamus 2012 Prophecy

If you watch the History Channel on almost any given night you be able to find some show depicting how the great alchemist, Michele Nostradamus, foresaw the future. Some claim he predicted the rise of Napeleon and Hitler and even alludes to the third and final antichrist. There are also those who believe he predicted 9/11 and Hurricane Katrina. But, what really has everyone interested right now are his predictions around December 21, 2012 or at least interpretations about what he might have said. Follow this link to learn what Nostradamus actually said about 2012.

I Ching 2012

Terrence and Dennis McKenna made some pretty far out discoveries while using hallucinogens and mathematical equations while interpreting the I Ching. Basically, what their research concluded was that the mystical Chinese text contained a 4,000 year timeline that ends on December 21, 2012. Does this ancient text really have the ability to foretell the future? Follow this link to learn more about the I Ching.

WebBot 2012

There is a lot of mystery behind the WebBot and no one really knows who created it. It was originally developed to analyze and interpret various web postings in an attempt to predict the movement of the stock market and its individual stocks. However, it started to produce data that predicted major events like 9/11 and Hurricane Katrina. Recently, it has been predicting various doomsday and disaster scenarios over the next three years.
